Smog policies call for heavy crackdowns

By Kimberly Heinrichs

CITY OF INDUSTRY — Two government agencies last week revealed a battle plan three years in the making to fight smog and meet federal clean air standards by 2007.

If the blueprint for crackdowns on industry and motorists was followed to the letter, the entire South Coast air basin would comply with the ozone standards — except Western San Bernardino County and the Eastern San Gabriel Valley.

Those living and working in the basin currently are breathing three times the amount of pollutants in their air allowed by federal law.

The policy proposals drafted by the South Coast Air Quality Management District and the Southern California Association of Governments estimates that ozone exposure will be reduced by 88 percent basinwide if sweeping changes take place.

Those changes include converting the majority of vehicles to run on electricity, tightening car pool requirements

Mikels applies subtle pressure

By Richard Peraza

Applying some subtle political pressure, 2nd District county Supervisor Jon Mikels pointed out to area leaders recently that local city resistance to expansion of present landfills will carry hefty price tags.

"The cities of Rialto and Ontario have taken tough stances," opposing any expansion of the Milliken and Fontana (despite the name, it's actually located in Rialto) landfills, both of which are expected to reach capacity and close by 1992, Mikels told members of the Baldy View Public/Private Coalition.

Although the county has 70 years of total landfill capacity remaining, almost all of the sites are in the desert, at locations such as Barstow and Landers, he said.

Fontana and Milliken are "about the only remaining sites in the valley," Mikels told CLOUT members. So once they're closed, local refuse rates will skyrocket to cover soaring costs of trucking trash to distant disposal locations, he said.

"A tough decision is faced by Ontario and Rialto. They've got squeaky wheels. ... Councils are getting substantial pressure" from residents who live near the landfill sites and want them closed as soon as possible, according to Mikels.

But he predicted a backlash risk in doing that. "If tipping fees went up drastically, they'd get pressure from the other 90 percent of their residents.

"One of the things we do have that appears to be very attractive" is negotiations with Riverside County officials for use of their new El Sobrante Landfill 22 miles from Ontario,

Dr. George picks up check from firefighters

KABC weatherman given $4,000 for burn foundation

"I love Rancho Cucamonga."

Those were KABC weatherman Dr. George Fishbeck's sentiments as he passed through town during a three-day whirlwind journey through Southern California, June 22-24.

The Third annual Dr. George/California Burn Foundation Relay made it's stop in Rancho Cucamonga on Friday, June 24 in the Barton Plaza parking lot at Haven and Foothill. The Rancho Cucamonga Professional Firefighters Association presented Dr. George with $4,000 to benefit the California/Alicia Ann Ruch Burn Foundation.

"It takes eight stops to get this much normally!" exclaimed Dr. George when he saw the check.

Association President Darrell Luttrull and Rancho Cucamonga Mayor Dennis Stout accompanied Dr. George in the basket of Foothill Fire District's 1986 Grumman ladder truck and were elevated 95-feet where Luttrull made the presentation.

The relay, in it's third year, is organized by several Southern California firefighters. This year, Dr. George was transported to 72 different fire service organizations. He began his journey in Burbank and ended up at the Redlands Centennial Muster site at the University of Redlands on Friday afternoon.

Dr. George, who confesses to be a fire buff, was transported on shiny fire trucks, vintage antique fire engines, a fire boat, helicopters and an airport crash/fire-rescue rig. His ride atop of Foothill's ladder truck was the first time he had ever been to the top of an aerial device.

The 1988 Burn Relay netted more than $83,000 for the Burn Foundation, according to relay director Darrel Wilson.

The money is raised and donated by firefighters throughout Southern California. The Rancho Cucamonga Professional Firefighters Association raises funds for this event by sponsoring a family circus which is held at Chaffey College every spring.

According to Luttrull, the association has donated $17,000 to the Burn Foundation over the past three years. In addition, Luttrull said, approximately $10,000 has been funneled back into the community by the association over the last three years through sponsorships of youth sports and scouting organizations.

"We feel it is very important to support these different organizations," Luttrull said. "Our association has made a commitment to youth-oriented programs and hope to continue these relationships for years to come."

The California/Alicia Ann Ruch Burn Foundation is based in Canoga Park. Formed in 1971 the Burn Foundation provides burn and fire prevention education throughout the state. The burn foundation also assists burn victims and their families with their tragedy in several ways, including counseling, school re-entry programs, summer camp for young burn victims and even financial aid when possible. County water district awarded $100,000 bonus

By designing a new water reservoir to avoid peak hour electricity use, the Cucamonga County Water District has earned a $100,000 bonus from the Southern California Edison Company.

The bonus is offered as an incentive to agencies who plan ahead in the designing of projects to avoid using power as much as possible during the daytime "rush hours" at power plants.

The Cucamonga County Water District, which serves the city of Rancho Cucamonga, will reinvest the bonus into their capital improvement budget, according to district general manager Lloyd Michael.

The reservoir's capacity was enlarged to 5 million gallons, which is enough water to serve its area during the peak hours without pumping, according to Jaymie Foote, the district's public information officer.

The reservoir itself, located adjacent to the district's Royter-Nesbit water treatment plant in north Etiwanda, is undergoing finishing touches and will be brought on line in one month, Michael said.

The reservoir was built at a cost of $800,000. The bonus was paid in four separate checks.

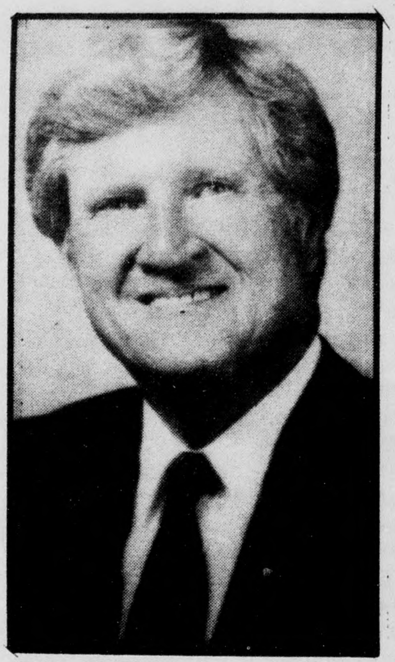
Councilman Billy Oldfield, 65, dies

By Kimberly Heinrichs



Billy Oldfield

The American flag that Billy and Markie Oldfield always kept posted in front of their Galena Avenue home was at half-staff in the afternoon of June 29.

The Montclair councilman died earlier in the day at the age of 65 after a three-month bout with cancer.

Oldfield joined the City Council in April 1986 when he was appointed to fill a vacant post. The city-employee-turned-councilman ran for election the following autumn and again this spring. Both times he was unopposed.

"He's my undisputed council champ," said City Administrator Mike Milhiser, who first worked with him as his boss when Oldfield was a city inspector and then as his employee when he became a councilman.

The councilman retired as a city inspector in 1986 after spending his last two years inspecting the Montclair Plaza remodeling effort. He had worked for the city almost 10 years.

"He was a confidant when he was an employee and a few times when I had a few issues that were bothering me I went up to the plaza. He listened to me gripe and gave me advice," Milhiser said.

Oldfield was known for his cheerful grins and his use of down home colloquialisms. His fellow council members remember him as a hard worker who spent much of his retirement serving the city.

"He did that as a personal favor to me because I couldn't make some of them," said Mayor Larry Rhinehart. "He just stepped in and volunteered and said, 'Don't worry about a thing.'

"I don't know what I would have done without it. Even more important, I don't know what I'm going to do now," he said.

Councilwoman Dolly Lewman said he still was in good humor when she last saw him.

"As weak as he was last Friday, I always tried to make him laugh. As much as he was in pain he was able to smile," she said.

A robust, energetic man, Oldfield did not discover his cancer until it was well-advanced.

Council members first noticed signs of Oldfield's illness in late March during a National League of Cities conference in Washington, D.C.

"He invited a group of us to celebrate his birthday. It was terribly important to him that a few of his close friends and council members could share just a few minutes with him," the mayor said. "And at the time he was coughing. I don't think he knew he was dying, but he was very ill. It was a lasting memory."

Oldfield and his wife took a week to visit relatives in Kansas. After the trip, he was diagnosed as having cancer.

Although he missed the second April council meeting, he attended a special meeting later that week in a wheelchair for his swearing in and appointment as mayor pro tem. Although his voice was hoarse he managed a short speech of thanks. The first meeting in May was his last.

He was able to spend much of his illness in his home, and substitute paints and coatings with low emission materials.

The proposal assumes that the district's population will jump from 13.6 million in 1987 to 18.3 million in 2010, according to Carolyn Green, AQMD deputy executive officer for planning and analysis.

With an expected 4 percent decrease in Los Angeles and Orange counties'population — but only a 2 percent decrease in their share of employees — there still will be an increase in commuters from San Bernardino and Riverside counties, she said.

"Job growth is expected to outstrip housing growth. That translates into more people driving longer distances to get to work," she said.

Technology and growth control were not taken into account.

The proposals are divided into three increments. The agencies hope to meet federal standards for nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxide in five years through controls on surface coatings, stricter emission standards on new motor vehicles and reducing vehicle trips.

During the next 10 years the agencies hope to reduce ozone and reach the particulate matter standard in the basin by requiring 40 percent of the cars, 70 percent of the trucks and 100 percent of the transit buses to use clean fuel such as methanol or be electrically powered.

The proposal calls for an almost 100 percent conversion to electricity for vehicles and near elimination of emissions from surface coatings during the five-year period that ends in 2007.

At that point the district would almost comply with federal clean air standards for ozone. Air officials hope that new technology will come along in the meantime to enable it to meet the standards.

But as things stand now, even the most stringent plans would leave the East San Gabriel Valley and the West Valley with a worst smog episode of .17 parts per million or 163 on the Pollution Standard Index, Green said.

The worst smog episode in 1987 was 240 PSI for Upland and 265 PSI for Glendora, both of which are first stage alerts and considered very unhealthful. The worst smog episode in 20 years would be considered merely unhealthful.

Although the agencies originally were supposed to reveal a draft plan last week, the document is not expected until Sept. 9. Before then the air quality district and SCAG will be seeking public comment and meeting with leaders in the basin on the proposals.

After the draft is released, public hearings will be held in San Bernardino, Riverside, Los Angeles and Orange counties during September and October. The transportation and land-use elements of the plan are expected to be adopted by SCAG Nov. 3 and the entire plan will be considered by the air quality board Nov. 4.

The Environmental Protection Agency must approve the plan.

Industry and organization members didn't wait for the later hearings, but stood in line that day to have their say on the just-released document.

David Cahn of the California Manufacturers Association warned the agencies not to shrink from controlling the average person's car.

TEENAGE TROUBLES WILL NOT TAKE A SUMMER VACATION.

Most parents feel that when the school stops calling them, their teen's troubles stop. Problems that adolescents and their families experience never take a vacation.

TEEN TROUBLE SIGNS:

- Is your teenager withdrawing from his family?
- Is he continually angry and argumentative?
- Is she sad most of the time?
- Does your teen say "I can't take it anymore"?
- Are his eating habits changing?
- Is he having school problems?
- Are her sleeping patterns changing?

While summer break is necessary, don't assume your teenagers are not experiencing problems. Do something while you still can.

Exercise-haters lie down on the job

Gain without pain guaranteed at salon

By Linda M. Hickman

At last, out-of-shape people who hate exercise have been delivered from a fate worse than death — sweat.

Gain without pain is exactly what is promised, in fact, guaranteed, to patrons of the California Concepts passive exercise salon.

"If your body has (extra inches, they) will come off," Lillian Richards, owner of the Upland salon, said.

The California Concepts program involves the use of seven motorized "exercise beds" which move the exerciser's body with only limited effort on the part of that person.

The very term "passive exercise" seems like a contradiction of terms. But patrons of California Concepts do not care how the system works, only that it does.

Louise Romo of Upland has been using the program since April 4, and has lost 26 inches. Romo said she was skeptical when she was first introduced to the program. "I wasn't too sure," she said, "but I knew it was working because by the fifth session I had lost a total of 13 inches."

Richards said the program originated in the 1940s as a way to improve the muscle tone and circulation of the disabled. "The inches came off as a bonus," she said.

According to Richards, this makes the program particularly suited to people who for any reason can not do aerobic exercises.

She said one of the salon's customers is a 74-year-old man who at first could not lift his arms due to arthritis. She said the man not only can lift his arms over his head as a result of the program, but has also lost more than 15 pounds and 27 inches.

Jane McDonald of Ontario said she can not perform aerobic exercises because of a problem with varicose veins. She said she has lost 15 inches in the three weeks she has participated in the program. "I sit at a desk 10 hours a day, so this has been a godsend to me," she said.

But some of Richards' customers simply do not like to exercise, and are glad to avoid the inconvenience of sweat. "They don't work up a sweat and they don't get tired," Richards said of her customers.

"It's easy," said Dianne Poole of Cucamonga. "Aerobics? Breathlessness? No."

In addition to the use of the machines, Richards instructs patrons to drink eight eight-ounce glasses of water per day. "The machines break down toxic tissues so you need the water to cleanse your system," she said.

"If you do what you're supposed to do you'll get guaranteed results," she

Ironically, the privately owned California Concepts salons were a thriving business in Florida and New England before the first one opened in California.

The West Coast's pioneer salon, opened in Downey on Dec. 30, 1986, and went out of business June 18 due to financial problems. But Richards said the Upland salon, which opened five months ago, has about 150 regular customers.

Use of the tables for their weight loss value is not limited to the California Concepts salons. Upland's Slimmer Trimmer You has two sets of six tables for customers' use, and the owner of Gold's Gym in Upland plans to add 12 tables to the gym's Nautilus and free-weight equipment.

Slimmer Trimmer You manager George Atamian said one benefit to his salon, which deals exclusively with the tables, is that it is an easier, more private way for overweight people to exercise.

"If you take someone 30-40 pounds overweight," he said, "they are intimidated to go to other health spas ... it is emotionally difficult on them. We only allow 12 people per hour into the salon."

But not everyone is convinced that the tables are as miraculous as they seem. Claremont physical therapist Bob Barnett said exercisers who use the tables "are not really expending any calories, so I don't see how (the beds) can be effective in terms of fat reduction or muscle toning."

Barnett said the tables can not be seen as a replacement for active exercise. He said "I don't think they are harmful ... but I don't see how these people can be losing inches."

The owners of the salons all agree that the beds should not be a person's only source of exercise. They said use of the tables should be supplemented by some sort of aerobic exercise, such as swimming.

Valley commuter crusader seeking safe spot to park

By Lori Moody

Assemblyman Bill Leonard, right, presents Pliny "Mac" Barnes with signed copy of the bill that will allow Barnes to operate commuter bus without PUC interference.

It looks like the valley's commuter crusader may be in for another battle — trying to find a new place for his riders to park.

As Pliny "Mac" Barnes accepted a copy of a bill signed by Gov. George Deukmejian releasing him from regulations meant for commercial bus companies, some of his riders were surveying damage from vandals to their vehicles in Ontario.

"It's the first time we have experienced any trouble at all," said Barnes, a Redlands resident. "At least five of the cars were damaged in one way or another."

Barnes' riders leave their cars on G Street, west of Archibald Avenue, for their morning commute in his 45-passenger bus. When they returned that Friday afternoon they were met with shattered windows and mirrors.

One woman's van was "pretty badly hit" when someone tried to get to the stereo while the thieves were successful with another auto.

"One gal, it looked like they had taken a bat or wrench to her side mirror," Barnes said.

Ontario police Sgt. Bob Racine said that one burglary report was filed with police but there was evidence of window smashing throughout the entire stretch of G Street. It was unknown how many victims there were, he said.

Barnes said he has been dropping off people at that spot for about eight years and it's currently used by 18 of his riders.

The location provides convenient access to the freeway, he said.

"I guess we don't have very much protection out there," Barnes said. "It's an obvious target. All you have to do is drive by once and know nobody's around. We're going to have to look for a new location."

He said that he thought the California Department of Transportation had plans for a Park-N-Ride in the area but that could take several years.

Barnes became known as the commuter crusader earlier this year when he took on the Public Utilities Commission over operation of his non-profit carpool. Barnes charged passengers only enough to share operational expenses.

The Los Angeles Rapid Transit District filed a complaint with the PUC which contended that Barnes should pay a $500 filing fee and surrender 1 percent of his gross receipts because he was using a bus.

Barnes' plight drew widespread media attention and support from area political leaders.

As a result, Assemblyman Bill Leonard, R-Redlands, drafted Assembly Bill 1063 which reduces the filing fee to $75 for non-profit carpools using buses and eliminates forfeit of gross receipts.

Cal Poly Pomona to launch program for ethnic minority students

A "hands-on" summer bridge program will begin at Cal Poly Pomona in mid-July, designed to help underrepresented ethnic minority students become academically, socially and psychologically prepared for a college environment before entering the university in September.

The theme for the program, now in its fourth year, is "Fulfill Your Destiny."

It will begin July 10 and provide a five-week session for 90 newly entering freshmen and a three-week session for 30 community college transfer students.

The state-funded project is directed at Cal Poly by James Lopez, director of the university's Educational Opportunity Program (EOP), and coordinated by Moses Walters, EOP associate director.

Dr. Vinod Patwardhan recently began practicing medicine in Montclair again after having his license restored by the state medical board.

Montclair doctor hangs out his shingle once again

By Kimberly Heinrichs

Montclair's "defiant doctor," who lost his license after practicing civil disobedience in lieu of medicine, has hung his shingle up again.

Dr. Vinod C. Patwardhan was arrested twice in the autumn of 1986 for treating patients during much-publicized protests while he was under suspension. The state Board of Medical Quality Assurance eventually revoked his license Sept. 7, 1987, but wound up restoring it to him this spring.

He has set up shop in a small office in the Monte Vista Professional Suites on Monte Vista Avenue. A hand-lettered sign announces his name and hours on the door to the waiting room crowded with the patients who waited patiently for his return.

"Basically the board was pushed into a corner. A big case was made out of it," said the physician, a small man with darting eyes and a ready smile.

Patwardhan and a band of fiercely devoted patients managed to get the attention of Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-Chino, who proposed legislation that pressured the board into backing down and offering a compromise.

The agreement consisted of an oral clinical test by two of his peers, which the doctor passed in April, and probation, said medical board spokesman Ron Kraemer. He declined comment on the legislative pressures faced by the board.

"I feel bad though. I feel bad about the whole incident. I feel bad because of the way I got my license back," Patwardhan said.

"I wish they could have listened to me. Then I wish they had said, 'Well, he's a good practicioner. We won't let the system screw him.' They chose not to use that discretion when they had it."

The native of India maintained that he only pretended to treat his patients during his suspension as a "Ghandi-like" protest of what he thought was unfair punishment for a crime he never committed.

His license was suspended after he refused to comply with probation requirements. He was put on probation after a 1983 medical board ruling called his treatment of a patient in 1980 incompetent. The doctor has maintained that the accusations stemming from that incident were mean-spirited and unfounded.

After his appeal of the revocation was denied by the same board last year, the internal medicine specialist could have petitioned to get his license back in a year, but he decided not to wait. Patwardhan and his loyal patients began an intensive campaign to get state legislators and administrative officials on their side.

About 15 patients put together 140 200-page booklets crammed with endorsements from other physicians, petitions from patients, Patwardhan's correspondence with the medical board and newspaper articles, said Mary Clark, receiving outpatient radiation treatment from San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

He is survived by a son, Billy Allen Oldfield, two daughters, Jo Stiles and Lynn Payton, and five grandchildren, according to city officials.

A member of the Montclair Kiwanis Club, he was the immediate past president. He was a charter member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Montclair Chapter, and was present at Pearl Harbor when it was bombed Dec. 7, 1941.

Perhaps because of his experience as a city worker, Oldfield was known as a person who sympathized with the average citizen and disliked fancy bureaucratic talk.

Professional lobbyist hired by R.C. for Sacramento duty

By Lee Peterson

Rancho Cucamonga reluctantly has enlisted the services of a professional Sacramento lobbyist to safeguard the city's interests in the state Capitol.

Beginning July 1, the city will spend $2,000 a month in hopes of influencing and keeping tabs on any and all bills and resolutions directly affecting Rancho Cucamonga.

In hiring the lobbyist, the city joins the growing ranks of medium-size cities no longer willing to rely on the legislative advocacy of the California League of Cities alone.

City officials say they recognize the need for the lobbyist's services, but they are not altogether pleased with a system that forces them to hire one.

Councilwoman Pam Wright said it was in the best interest of the city, but she still found it distasteful to subscribe to the lobbying system.

"You have to participate in the way they set it up. We have to make sure our voice is heard the best we can," Wright said.

Having once worked as a lobbyist for children's interests, Wright said she realized how the system operates, but it's sad that local government needs a middle man just to reach their legislators.

With the city of Rancho Cucamonga and San Bernardino County having squared off over the past 12 months over legislation affecting the divvying up of property tax revenue, City Manager Lauren Wasserman said the city can use an extra hand in its tug of war with the county.

Wasserman does not expect the contract with the lobbyist to cut down on the six or seven trips he makes to Sacramento on city business each year.

Rancho Cucamonga becomes the first West Valley city to contract for a private lobbyist.

The firm of Joe A. Gonsalves and Son, which also lobbies for the San Bernardino County city of Victorville, said it can give Rancho Cucamonga individualized service which the League of Cities is too busy to provide.

"They can bring problems to us. We are problem solvers," said Anthony Gonsalves.

Gonsalves said medium-size cities these days need lobbyists due to the variety and complexity of legislative issues which can directly effect city coffers.

"I have some mixed feelings about it, it's something that I am kind of sad to see; that we have a full-time lobbyist," said Councilman Charles Buquet.

But the only other alternative he could see was to invest a city employee with the duties of lobbyist. The $24,000 yearly Gonsalves contract will be much more cost efficient than that, Buquet felt.

"I think $2,000 a month is by far worth it when you consider what it would cost to hire an employee to do that," said Councilwoman Deborah Brown.

"There's just a lot of things that somehow the cities get left out on, things we have to be paying attention to. It's a fantastic idea," she said.

9 supermarket recycling bins will be removed

By Christopher Elliott

Nine San Bernardino County supermarkets soon will be without their glitzy recycling bins for glass, aluminum and plastic products.

Because of financial losses, the state's largest recycling company, 20-20 Recycle Centers, decided recently to remove 197 of the 2,108 centers in California. Two such redemption centers are in the West Valley.

An October 1987 law requires at least one receptacle be available within a half-mile of retailers to provide convenient recycling services. Removal of the bins will not violate the nine-month-old law.

Although the government recycling plan has seen marginal success — eight percent more volume since it was installed — private recyclers are losing money, officials say.

While the state promotes, finances and regulates the program, private businesses are struggling to participate in what has become a very competitive venture, according to Kate McGuire, spokesperson for the recycling division in Sacramento.

Currently there are 308 more bins than are required by the law.

Officials at 20-20 say the program is costing them $1 million a month in losses. Unless they receive additional state subsidies, their program will close, B.P Hanrath, manager of government affairs at 20-20, said.

The company's move is expected to save it 65 percent in recycling expenditures.

Hardest hit in the West Valley by the closures are two Stater Bros. markets, one in Ontario and one in Upland.

Both store managers, however, were unaware the recycling centers were shutting down.

he said.

Mikels and 4th District Supervisor Larry Walker are on a subcommittee negotiating use of the facility with their Riverside County Board of Supervisors counterparts.

"The problem is obviously there are political risks for Riverside County," something that could be overcome for a price, Mikels said. Right now, the tentative price tag hovers between $20 and $25 a ton, more than twice San Bernardino County's current tipping fee of $10.55 a ton, he added.

La Verne City Councilman Tom Harvey pointed out proposed hauling of refuse by train to Kaiser Steel Corp.'s played-out Eagle Mountain iron mine near Desert Center for burial would ease the landfill crunch for most of the Southland for decades.

The costs, although high, are rapidly becoming feasible as dwindling landfill space pushes standard tipping fees upward, he said.

But regional cooperation will be necessary to make the system a reality, he added. "Very important to our solution is San Bernardino County," through which rail lines cross.

Although the concept holds promise, "there's been some initial opposition," stemming from distrust of the Los Angeles area, Mikels responded.

"Regionalization of solid waste ... is a catch word for, 'Hey, San Bernardino ... or, hey Riverside, you take our waste.'

"When we go head-to-head with Los Angeles County, we always seem to come out second best," Mikels said.

On the lighter side, Mikels promised Fontana Mayor Nat Simon a new name will be found for the Fontana Landfill. "But we have a problem," because no matter what name is suggested as a replacement, somebody always objects.

Sierra Landfill died after reflecting poorly on Fontana's main thoroughfare, Sierra Avenue. And Highland city officials frowned on proposed Highland Landfill, Mikels said.

If worse comes to worst, the county may have to settle for a number instead of a name, he said.

New Kohl Gallery setting trends in the West Valley

By Christopher Elliott

The newly opened Kohl Gallery is setting trends in the valley.

If not art trends, then business trends.

On June 28, it presented more than $1 million worth of art at a press conference — something done only in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago or Houston, according to David Rogoff, advertising agent. It also is the largest collection of its kind in the area.

"This is shocking," Rogoff said, "nothing like it has ever been done here."

"Shocking" might indeed be a term used around the featured works of Guy Coheleach, Mario Fernandez and other American wildlife artists displayed there.

One original Coheleach painting, entitled "Black Jaguar" sells for a cool $130,000, while another feline motif, "Shady Stalk," is priced at a modest $110,000.

In contrast to private exhibits or museums, the Kohl Gallery is open to the public. Usually, if a painting is not already sold, it is for sale.

For Gilbert E. Kohl, owner and curator, the art has become more of a moneymaker than an aesthetic endeavor. The veteran art collector decided to start a gallery after 10 years of operating a video tape rental store.

Musing over the talent of local wildlife artist Kathrynne Hyde, he summed up his motivation for establishing the gallery: "I just wanted to start another business."

But the lithographs and originals on display at Kohl attract both art lovers and investors, according to Rogoff.

His main concern is with local visitors who are insecure about their art knowledge. Valley customers are "less sophisticated" than big-city patrons, he claimed, which is a problem for the gallery.

"It's difficult for people to get excited about something they can't afford," he also noted.

Rogoff confided that the philosophy of art as investment instead of for appreciation's sake, bothered the artist in him at first.

"You have to accept what is," he contested. "Litho's (numbered reproductions of originals) are purchased as investments." Originals, he held, still are bought as collector's items.

Singles workshop

Rich Gosse, chairman of American Singles, a nationwide non-profit organization, will be presenting several seminars at Souther California colleges this summer.

A seminar is scheduled July 17 at Chaffey College. For more information, call 987-1737, extension 240.

He will cover, "Looking for Love in All the Right Places," from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and "How to Be Happily Single," from 2 to 5 p.m., in the business education building, room 2. The cost is $15 per seminar.

West End YMCA

Scott Goldstein has been appointed executive director of the Upland branch of the West End YMCA.

Goldstein will be responsible for the management of operations, programs and community development of the local YMCA.

His professional experience includes the position of program director of the San Pedro YMCA and most recently associate executive director of the Santa Anita YMCA. The Upland YMCA office is located at 388 E. C St., Upland. For information, call 946-6120.

Soroptimist officers

Soroptimist International of the Foothills recently held the installation of officers.

The board for 1988-89 is president, Manry Genung; first vice president, Susan Brooks; treasurer, Jackie Hall; recording secretary, Joan Kruse; corresponding secretary, Helen Rae Brieske; service ways and means, Marya Williams; community service, Rita Hansen; first delegate, Joan Shupe; and second delegate, Shirley Patrick.

chairwoman of patient group The Committee for Professional Rights. The packets then were mailed off to all the state senators and assembly members, Gov. George Deukmejian and other state officials, she said.

Ayala paid attention to the stacks of letters and their plea. His bill would have allowed the doctor a chance for another appeal.

"I got involved to the extent that I felt he was (not) getting a fair shake. I was not involved in whether his treatment was right or wrong .... I just wanted him to have his day in court," Ayala said. "Well, heavens, even criminals, even murderers who are serving time, if new evidence surfaces, they get a second chance."

The senator blamed bureacratic power for Patwardhan's stalemate.

But Kraemer said that the state board does allow for an appeal, which Patwardhan took advantage of and lost. The board, he pointed out, is made up of physicians and members of the public appointed by the governor, the speaker of the Assembly and the Senate president pro tem, not bureacrats.

Ayala's bill is now all but dead. When Patwardhan got his license back, he stopped pursuing it.

The saga of Patwardhan's struggles with the medical board still may not be over, however. While Kraemer said the probation notice clearly states that he was given credit for one year of the 3-year probation due to his 6-month suspension and 6-month revocation, leaving him two years to serve, Patwardhan insists that he was promised his probation would be waived.

200 people in the audience at the San Dimas Civic Center.

To to be honest, though, the models were real dogs and they stole the show.

But having a howling good time was the whole purpose behind the fashion show for pets sponsored by the Pomona Valley Humane Society, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the city of San Dimas for the San Dimas Senior Citizens' Club.

"This started out as a simple pet show when the San Dimas seniors club asked us to come out and put on a show. Then the volunteers got a hold of it and then there was a full-fledged fashion show. I think it's great," said William Harford, humane society executive director, as he chuckled to himself.

Harford's pet dachshund had just stepped out of the spotlight. The dog clearly was lapping up all the attention as the pup modeled ski sweater fashions for the well-dressed mutt.

And there were plenty of mutts. There weren't any show dogs involved. These were just plain, ordinary lovable pampered pets. Mixed in, though, were a few ringers from the humane society. Several of the animals were homeless strays housed at the Pomona facility. The show gave them a chance to kind of sell themselves in hopes of securing a new home.

"We've never done anything like this before. We've had a great time putting this together. We just wanted everyone to have fun. The public always hears the hard facts about the society's shelter — how many animals are abandoned and end up dying because they have no homes.

"This was an opportunity to entertain the members of the seniors' club and some community members, too. This fashion show will highlight some of the fun pet fashions that are available for the spring and summer seasons. Also it will give us a chance to celebrate the special love we share with our pets. It is our hope that this event will help reinforce the idea that all pets need a good, loving home with owners that really spoil them," said Judi Guizado, humane society community relations director.

Before the show began it was a perfect picture of controlled chaos. Volunteers were scrambling back and forth trying to get the right outfits and accessories with the right dogs. And in the middle of the tumult were the dogs.

If the old saying about every dog having its day is true, well show day was it.

Two French poodles pranced around, as only poodles can do, playing to the audience and serving up a glimpse of selections highlighting the 1988 summer and spring lines for the best-dressed dog on four legs. They looked like they had some professional training under their, uh, paws.

The dogs that seemed to capture the hearts of the audience were the Heinz 57 variety types who seemed completely lost occupying center stage.

The dachshund wearing the bright two-piece bikini produced a lot of laughs. And so did her escort, a borzoi dressed in a Hawaiian shirt and sunglasses looking as if he'd rather have been on paradise beach catching a few rays.

Key sites keeping new fire stations from being built

By Lee Peterson

Property owners unwilling to part with their land are delaying Rancho Cucamonga's plans to build three new fire stations in the city's growing eastern half.

The firefighting bases are needed to meet the fire protection demands in an area adding housing tracts and industrial parks by leaps and bounds, according to Foothill Fire Protection District officials.

Though further delays in the purchase of the three parcels of land could jeopardize the district's ability to safeguard the area in the near future, some are afraid that the use of government authority to take the land could cause further delay.

City Manager Lauren Wasserman said he still is hopeful that the city's Redevelopment Agency can purchase the three pieces of land without invoking government privileges to take the land.

Eminent domain — forcing landowners to part with their property — still exists as a last recourse for the agency to obtain the three sites.

The agency, which is financing land acquisition for and construction of the stations, already has met in closed session to discuss the land purchase. Agency counsel claimed the executive privilege to meet in private due to possible lawsuits by the landowners.

Meanwhile, the stations can not even be designed until the land is obtained.

"From our board's standpoint, we are very frustrated that it's been going on this long," said Foothill Chief Dennis Michael.

Due to the specific spot location of the planned fire stations, there is little flexibility in switching them to different sites, Michael said. The sites are mapped out based upon goals in response times.

The first two new stations built will be the district's fourth and fifth. Station No. 3, currently a temporary structure, will become a permanent facility at another site.

Stephen Wheatley, Foothill Board president, said the Redevelopment Agency should establish a certain date after which they will begin eminent domain proceedings if no deal has been struck with the landowners.

"We can not wait forever because we're going to be unprotected up there."

Construction of the stations could take a year on top of another six to eight months of design review and approval.

Fire board member Kurt Latipow said the agency is doing everything it can to acquire the land, but that it has been frustrating to wait. The stations must be completed before the district's thinly stretched manpower reaches the breaking point, Latipow said.

Latipow said the city may need to call a building moratorium — a measure he realizes would not be popular with builders.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ADOPTION OF ORDINANCE NO. 1430 OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF UPLAND ADOPTING A REDEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE FOOTHILL CORRIDOR REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT OF THE THE UPLAND COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 12, 1988, at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers, Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California 91786, the City Council of the City of Upland will consider adopting its Ordinance No. 1430 entitled "An Ordinance of the City Council of the City of Upland Adopting the Plan Attached Hereto as Exhibit '1' and Incorporated Herein by Reference as the Official Redevelopment Plan for the Foothill Corridor Redevelopment Project Area, an Area Specifically Described in that Plan." A summary of that Ordinance is as follows:

Summary of Ordinance No. 1430

Adoption of the Foothill Corridor Redevelopment Plan for the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency.

Ordinance No. 1430 of the City Council of the City of Upland adopts a Redevelopment Plan for the Foothill Corridor, a contiguous, irregularly shaped area generally located along Foothill Boulevard from Benson Avenue on the west to Alta Avenue on the east. The project area includes approximately 264 acres of land.

The redevelopment project was commenced in order to improve and revitalize the above-described project area which has become blighted due to lack of property maintenance, general disuse, lack of public facilities, including storm drain and street facilities, and mixed and nonconforming land uses. Redevelopment will be utilized in order to minimize costs to the public, while achieving an overall upgrade in both land use and public improvements in the project area.

As part of the redevelopment plan, owners and tenants in the Project Area are provided with the first opportunity to participate in the overall plan, without competition from outside of the project area. This participation includes the opportunity to upgrade properties currently owned by Project Area residents, tenants and owners of businesses, as well as the opportunity for current Project Area property owners to sell or acquire additional properties, all through the use of participation agreements. These agreements are being utilized to insure accomplishment of overall project goals, consistent with project standards.

Opportunities for existing property owners further include assistance in renovating and upgrading existing structures in lieu of replacement, so long as overall plan standards are maintained.

In accordance with applicable provisions of redevelopment lw, the project may involve the use of eminent domain. The Upland Community Redevelopment Agency may acquire and clear property of existing structures within the project area based upon the Agency's findings, with respect to any particular parcel, that either a building is substandard beyond reasonable repair, that removal of a structure is required in order to achieve environmental compliance and elimate environmental deficiencies, that removal of a structure is necessary for needed public improvements such as rights-of-way or construction of recreational facilities, or that removal of a structure is required in order to create reasonably sized parcels of land, provide improved streets or to install public utilities.

The plan provides relocation assistance to those property owners who may be displaced from the Project Area by the Agency. Such assistance is comprehensive and includes payment of moving expenses and locating suitable alternative properties for displaced owners. As required by state law, a replacement housing plan will be established with respect to the proposed clearance of dwelling units within the Project Area. Under said plan, the Agency is responsible for replacing demolished low to moderate income housing with an equal number of replacement dwellings at an affordable cost, within either the Project Area or the territorial jurisdiction of the Agency.

Under the plan, responsibilities of the City of Upland include taking all steps reasonably available to insure the continued fulfillment of overall Project objectives, such as conducting proceedings necessary to modify existing streets and rights-of-way, modifications to existing public facilities within the Project Area, and administering conventional land use controls with respect to property within the Project Area. As required by state law, land uses proposed for the Project Area shall conform to the City's General Plan.

Under the plan, the Agency may obtain financing through various means, as set by statute, including financial assistance obtained from the City of Upland, County of San Bernardino, State of California or the United States Government, property tax revenues generated by increased assessed valuation of property within the Project Area, and through the issuance of bonds, loans obtained or other monies advanced, as authorized by state law. However, property taxes otherwise owing and subject to division, shall not be divided aND ALLOCATED TO THE Redevelopment Agency in excess of 200 million dollars, except by amendment to the plan. Additionally, no loans, advances or other indebtedness to finance, in whole or in part, the Project, which are to be repaid from allocation of property taxes, shall be incurred or established by the Agency beyond 30 years from July 12, 1988, unless extended by amendment to the plan. At no time, without further amendment, may the Agency's amount of outstanding bonded indebtedness exceed 70 million dollars.

In accordance with state law, not less than 20% of all taxes allocated to the Agency shall be used to increase and improve Upland's supply of housing for persons and families of low or moderate income.

A certified copy of the entirety of the text of Ordinance No. 1430, together with the Foothill Corridor Redevelopment Plan, is available in the office of the City Clerk, Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California, and is open for public inspection at that location.

Dated: June 30, 1988.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ADOPTION OF ORDINANCE NO. 1431 OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF UPLAND MERGING AREAS SUBJECT TO REDEVELOPMENT PLAND OF THE UPLAND COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 12, 1988, at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers, Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California 91786, the City Council of the City of Upland will consider adopting its Ordinance No. 1431 entitled "An Ordinance of the Council of the City of Upland Merging Project Areas Subject to the Canyon Ridge Community Redevelopment Plan, the Arrow/Benson Redevelopment Plan, the Seventh/Mountain Redevelopment Plan, the Airport Area Redevelopment Plan and the Foothill Corridor Redevelopment Plan, All of Which Are Plans of the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency." A summary of that Ordinance is as follows:

Summary of Ordinance No. 1431

Adoption of Ordinance Merging Areas Subject to Redevelopment Plans of the Upland Community redevelopment Agency.

Ordinance No. 1431 of the City Council of the City of Upland merges all of the existing redevelopment project areas of the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency. The merger is being accomplished under the authority of California Health and Safety Code Seciton 33485, et seq. State law indicates that such mergers are desirable if they result in public benefit and contribute to the revitalization of blighted areas through the increased economic vitality of such areas.

Once the merger is accomplished, funds generated in a particular redevelopment project area may be used to pay debts established for redevelopment activities in other constituent project areas. The merger affords the Upland community Redevelopment Agency the ability to use the aggregate revenues generated in all of its project areas to facilitate the entirety of its redevelopment efforts, and thus accelerate the elimination of blight from the City of Upland.

The ordinance effecting the merger does not add public projects which the redevelopment agency may undertake and does not modify the financial limitations applicable to each constituent project area. No substantive provision of any redevelopment plan previously adopted and applicable to a portion of the merged project area will be modified by the ordinance merging the project areas.

A certified copy of the entirety of the text of Ordinance No. 1431 is available in the office of the City Clerk, Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California, and is open for public inspection at that location.

Dated: June 30, 1988.

College smoking banned

By Natalie Shore

Chaffey College smokers will have to rethink their habits as a result of a new on-campus smoking policy which restricts where people may light up.

In a 3-2 decision, trustees voted recently to ban smoking "in any college-owned buildings or vehicles." Trustees Robert Edmonson and James Barton opposed the policy.

"The college as an institution realizes environmental smoke is a health risk," the new policy reads.

"It has been concluded that chronic exposure to tobacco smoke in the workplace is deleterious to both the smoker and non-smoker. All employees shall share in the responsibility for the reduction of smoking in the college environment," it says.

As stated, the policy does not provide for designated smoking areas inside college buildings.

The college is following suit with anti-smoking positions currently being publicly adopted by the U.S. surgeon general and many institutions, said board President William Bescoby.

In addition to promoting the opinion that smoking is not healthy, the board's action may also cause people to think about what they're doing by making it inconvenient to smoke, he said.

"You can't just reach for another cigarette while you're working. It (the policy) takes a subconscious habit and makes it a conscious one ... it makes people think about what they're doing," Bescoby said.

The policy was introduced a month before the action. Although Trustee Isabel Scully is a smoker, she supported the smoking ban.

"Just because I have a bad habit, it doesn't mean that everybody else should suffer for it," she said.

But Edmundson, a non-smoker, voted against the policy. "I figure that we need a little time to get an area where the smokers can smoke," he said.

Edmonson agreed with the policy's premise, but he felt it was incomplete, he said.

Student petitions called for the policy to include provisions for indoor smoking areas. Although the board approved the smoking ban without such provisions, trustees will revise the policy to create designated smoking areas, Bescoby said.

Do You Like Kids?

BETTER YET -
Would You Enjoy
Working with teenagers
While Earning A Better
Than Average Income?

If you have had any experience running a magazine sales crew, or newspaper experience working with carrier boys; if you have had any experience in any direct sales, such as cookware, photos, books, etc. then don't pass this ad up!

Even If You Have Had
No Experience At All
In These Fields
GIVE ME A CALL!

I have taken the sting out of sales work. WE ARE LOOKING FOR SALES CREW SUPERVISORS. There is no direct sales or delivering involved in this position.

Let me introduce you to a program in the newspaper circulation promotion field. If you believe you can supervise teenage boys & have a van, station wagon, or good running sedan with full insurance coverage, then I want to talk with you!

Speak to our people on the job and ride with them; before you make any decisions about our program.

Our start up incentive and commissions structure will impress you and clearly show how you can earn a better than average income while you remain your own boss.

Call us today for more information & a possible interview.
